shall, subject to regulations 7 to 10, have a right of appointment to the posts under local Governments which are specified in Schedule II whether or not the posts which he was holding on the 10th May 1928 was a post specified in Schedule I or II.

3 As an exception to the provisions of regulation 2 an officer who was transferred to civil employ on account of his special qualifications to hold a particular appointment not reserved for officers of the Indian Medical Service, shall have no right to be appointed to any of the posts specified in Schedule II except a post of Administrative medical officer in charge of a Provincial Medical Department, but shall have the right to remain undisturbed in the post for which he was originally transferred to civil employ, unless with his own consent he is transferred to another post with equivalent or better prospects.

4. A local Government may leave a post included in Schedule I unfilled or may fill it otherwise than by the appointment of an officer of the Indian Medical Service, for other cause for a period not exceeding six months, but if the arrangement is to last for more than three months, shall report forthwith through the Governor General in Council to the Secretary of State in Council that a reserved post has been left unfilled or has been filled otherwise than by the appointment of an officer of the Indian Medical Service, together with the reasons for its action. If the Secretary of State in Council is not satisfied of the necessity for the action taken by the local Government, he may direct that such vacancy shall be filled forthwith or that an officer of the Indian Medical Service shall be appointed to such post forthwith.

5. It shall be open to the local Government at the time of reporting action taken as provided in regulation 4, or at any time subsequent within the period of six months, to request that a post reserved for an officer of the Indian Medical Service may be left unfilled, or may be filled, otherwise than by the appointment of an officer of the Indian Medical Service for a period in excess of six months. It will rest with the Secretary of State in Council to decide whether or not the continuance of such an arrangement may be sanctioned for a period of twelve months beyond the expiry of the first six months. It shall be open to a local Government within the period for which an extension is granted to make further application for extension. The Secretary of State will dispose of such further application as if it were a first application for extension.

7 In order to adjudge the claims of officers of the Indian Medical Service of the categories mentioned in regulations 2 and 3, to posts specified in Schedule II to these regulations, those posts shall be divided into three groups as follows:—

(a) administrative posts, namely, Surgeon Generalships and Inspector-Generalships of Civil Hospitals;

(2) The Board will assemble once a year or oftener, if necessary, and local Governments will report in December every year for the consideration of the Board the names of officers who are considered suitable for appointment to civil administrative posts, and who are willing to accept such posts provided that the Board shall not be precluded from considering other names, should they think them desirable. The recommendations of the Board will be submitted to His Excellency the Commander-in-Chief.

(3) On the occurrence of a vacancy in a Civil Administrative post, the Director-General, Indian Medical Service, will submit to the Government of India on the Department of Education, Health and Lands, from the local officers approved for promotion by the Selection Board the names of three officers whom he considers suitable for the particular post. The Government of India shall then communicate these names to the local Government concerned and ask for their views regarding the suitability of the officers in order of preference. After full consideration of the views of the local Government the final selection will be made by the Governor-General in Council.

(4) In selecting officers for civil administrative posts, an endeavour will be made, wherever possible, to make the selection at least six months before the vacancy falls due, so that the officer selected may be in a position to take leave and proceed to the United Kingdom in order that he may enter fresh on his new duties and also have an opportunity of acquiring up-to-date information on matters connected with his appointment.

9. Non-administrative posts carrying increased pay or special pay in addition to the ordinary time-scale pay of the Indian Medical Service (civil).—Where a non-administrative post specified in Schedule II carries increased pay or special pay while vacant, the local Government concerned shall first consider the claims for appointment thereto of all officers of the I.M.S. serving under such local Government of the categories mentioned in regulation 2. If amongst those officers is considered fit for the post, the local Government shall report to the Governor-General in Council, who will consider the claims of all officers of the I.M.S., of the categories mentioned in regulation 2, who are employed under him or in any of the provinces, including the province in which the vacancy occurs.

To assist him in considering such claims, the Governor-General in Council shall appoint a Selection Committee, which shall be composed as he thinks fit, but shall include the Director-General, Indian Medical Service, and the administrative head of the Medical Department of the province in which the vacancy occurs. If an officer possessing suitable qualifications is available, the Governor-General in Council will place the officer's services at the disposal of the local Government for appointment to the vacant post, but if no suitable officer is available, the local Government shall be at liberty to fill up the vacancy in such manner as they consider fit.

10. An officer of the I.M.S. of a category mentioned in regulation 2 who on the 15th May 1923, held a non-administrative post specified in Schedule II carrying only the time scale pay of the I.M.S. (civil), shall be entitled to continue in such post unless he is transferred to a post of equivalent prospects, or, at his own request, to any other post, or is promoted to a post included in category (a) or (b) in regulation 2.

11. No post specified in Schedule I or Schedule II, and no reserved post in Schedule III, shall be abolished save with the previous sanction of the Secretary of State in Council.

12. No officer of the I.M.S. in civil employ shall, without his consent, be transferred to a post not specified in Schedule I or Schedule II, or to a post specified in Schedule III which is not reserved for the I.M.S.

Report of Select Committee on the Bill to supplement the Criminal Law 441

Bills introduced in the Council of State and Legislative Assembly, Reports of Select Committees presented to the Council and Assembly and Bills published under Rule 18 of the Indian Legislative Rules.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY DEPARTMENT.

The following Report of the Select Committee on the Bill to supplement the Criminal Law was presented to the Legislative Assembly on the 7th November 1932:—

WE, the undersigned, Members of the Select Committee to which the Bill to supplement the Criminal Law was referred, have considered the Bill and have now the honour to submit this our Report, with the Bill as amended by us annexed thereto.

2. We are of opinion that the legislation contemplated should be of limited duration only. Certain of our members were in favour of limiting its duration to six months, but we have fixed the period at three years, with the intention that the enactment should be in force until after the constitutional changes now contemplated are brought into being. In consequence of our decision it at once became evident that the provisions of the Bill could not appropriately in all cases be enacted as amendments to or of the Indian Penal Code or other existing Acts. This explains the altered form of many clauses of the Bill, and the change made in the preamble, and in clause 1.

3. Clause 2.—In recasting the Bill clause 13 has been combined with this clause. We have inserted the word "wilfully" and we have introduced additional safeguards. We desire to protect as far as possible honest criticisms made in good faith and have provided for this by our first Exception. We have also extended the scope of the Exception (now Exception No. 2) of the clause as drafted in order to safeguard advice given in good faith in the interests of a man's family or dependants.

Clause 3.—A minor verbal change has been made in the clause itself. In re-drafting the Explanation we have aimed at achieving definiteness by an exhaustive enumeration of the persons to be deemed public servants for the purposes of the clause.

Clause 4.—The many alterations made in the drafting of this clause are aimed at achieving increased clearness. We considered the word "prejudice" to be unduly wide in meaning. We have qualified by material insertions the words relating to the letting of a house or land, which we consider to be undesirably loose. We have simplified the language, retaining the expression "to deal with" as a comprehensive general description of the activities particularised in the draft clause. We have introduced a more definite expression for the words "person in whom such public servant is interested" and we have made it clear that the words "on the terms on which such things would be done in the ordinary course" qualify all the preceding phrases. We have also changed the reference to "professional or business relations" to a particular reference to the withholding of medical services, these being the professional services which it is most important to assure to public servants in the mufassal. We have reduced the term of imprisonment and have imposed a maximum limit to the fine which may be inflicted. We have further provided by the new sub-clause (2) a safeguard against abuse of this section by indiscriminate complaints in the Courts.

Clause 5.—We are impressed by the danger that persons who inadvertently repeat a passage not harmful in itself from a newspaper which has been declared to be forfeited may be exposed to the mischief of this clause. We have accordingly introduced by sub-clause (2) a provision which we think will be sufficient safeguard against this danger.

Clause 6.—The form in which we are recasting the Bill has rendered it necessary to reproduce what was the effect of clause 6 of the Bill as drafted in a self-contained form based upon section 26 of Ordinance X of 1932. We have simplified the wording in the opening lines. We have substituted "any class of public servants" for the words "any public servant," and we have limited the abstention of public servant to that contained in the Indian Penal Code. Since the Bill as originally drafted has the effect of superseding clause (b) of section 505 of the Indian Penal Code, as it at present stands, we have provided that this effect shall also be produced by the Bill in the form in which it has been recast by us. This is effected by our new sub-clause (2).

Clause 7.—We have substituted a more definite expression for the words "any one in whom such person is interested." We have made clause (b) more definite by the omission of the last two lines which we replace by the words "or does any similar act" after "duties;" and we have changed the words "in such a way or with intent" to "in such a way and with intent." The Explanation was added at the suggestion of Mr. Jagi. It emphasises the fact that the section is not intended to hamper lawful advocacy of Swadeshi or abstention from intoxicating liquor. Sub-section (2) embodies the contents of the first part of clause 11 of the Bill as introduced.

Clause 8.—We have re-drafted the clause to give clear expression to the defences available to a parent or guardian. We have added an Explanation of the word "guardian," and we have embodied in sub-section (2) the provisions respecting recovery of fines contained in the Children Acts instead of those in the draft Bill thereby eliminating the provision for imprisonment in default of payment of fine.

Clauses 9 and 10 of the Bill as introduced have been completely recast in consequence of the change in the form of enacting the penal sections. We have made all the offences bailable except an offence under clause 7. We have made all offences triable only by a first class Magistrate. New clause 9 of the Bill gives effect to these resolutions.

Clause 11 of the Bill as introduced.—The substance of the proposed section 296 A A is now contained in clause 7 of our Bill, as sub-clause (2).

Clause 12, now renumbered as clause 10.—We have decided that the power to declare an offence non-bailable should be given only in the case of sections 153 and 506 of the Indian Penal Code. We have effected this by a re-draft of the clause.

Clause 13 of the Bill as introduced.—We have provided for the contents of this clause in clause 2 of the Bill thereby applying the safeguards already provided for the kindred offence under that clause.

Clause 14 of the Bill as introduced becomes unnecessary owing to the form in which we have recast the Bill.

Clauses 15 and 16 are retained as clauses 11 and 12, with the minor alterations necessary owing to the limited duration of the Bill.

Clause 17, now re-numbered as clause 13.—We have made extensive alterations in the amendments proposed in the Criminal Law Amendment Act, 1908, with the object of providing some sort of machinery for the hearing of appeals against an order of forfeiture. Mr Jadhav was of opinion that the provision for forfeiture should be removed altogether. We have decided that it should be retained, but that in respect of movables seized in a notified place forfeiture, now to be ordered by the District Magistrate or Commissioner of Police instead of by the Local Government, should only be ordered after an opportunity has been afforded to the owners of the articles to show either to the officer proposing to forfeit them or to a Judicial Officer that they are not liable to forfeiture. In the same way with respect to monies and securities we have provided that they shall be released from detention and shall not be forfeited if the owner establishes before a Judicial Officer that they are not being used and are not intended to be used for the purposes of an unlawful association. We have also provided that information obtained in the enquiries which may be made during proceedings with a view to seizure and forfeiture shall not be disclosed. We have made minor changes in proposed sections 17G and 17F which are self-explanatory.

Clause 18 of the Bill as introduced, now re-numbered as clause 14.—The alterations are consequential upon our decision that the Bill shall remain in force for three years only.

Clause 20, now re-numbered as clause 16.—We have qualified the word "disaffection" and the expression "bring into hatred or contempt" by importing the explanations of the word and expression to be found in section 124A and section 153A of the Indian Penal Code. We have omitted the references to Indian Princes and Chiefs.

4. The Bill was published in the Gazette of India, dated the 17th September 1932

5. We think that the Bill has not been so altered as to require re-publication, and we recommend that it be passed as now amended.

MINUTES OF DISSENT.

Clause 4.—(1) In regard to clause 4, we agree generally with the amendments made. The Committee have, however, held that the expression "to deal with" is a comprehensive general description of the activities particularised in the draft clause. We think that some explanatory words are necessary for the sake of clarity and the guidance of the Courts. "Refusal to supply goods" has been the method most usually adopted for boycotting public servants, and we should therefore prefer to add the words "by supply of goods or otherwise" after the words "to deal with"

(2) The Committee have reduced the penalty to imprisonment for a term which may extend to three months; we consider the provision of the original Bill is preferable and that if the penalty is to be deterrent, the maximum sentence of imprisonment should be six months.

(3) The explanation of the term "public servant" as now drafted does not include soldiers or non-commissioned officers of the Army. We consider that the protection which has been granted to other public servants against boycott should be extended also to soldiers. It is not, however, necessary to make any addition to the definition in clause (3), for the offence of tampering with a public servant, if committed in respect of a soldier, is punishable under the ordinary law, but we consider that it is very necessary to amend the explanation in clause (4) so as to include soldiers.

I agree with paragraph (3) of the Note of Dissent by the Honourable Sir B. L. Mitter and others.

The 6th November 1932.

LAL CHAND.

I have signed the report subject to the following observations :—

Regarding clause 3, the clause as at present worded can be used to bring within its purview a perfectly innocent person who repeats the passage adjudged to be offensive without knowing or suspecting that the same has been adjudged to be objectionable by the authorities. To guard against any possible abuse I would insert the words "knowing or having reason to believe that such action have been declared to be forfeited" after the words "force" and before the word "shall" in sub-clause (b).

Clause 5.—The object of the Bill is to deal with certain manifestations of the Civil Disobedience Movement. So far as I know it is rare for the promoters of the movement to attack public servants as a class. The attacks are directed more frequently by far against individual public servants and the clause as at present worded does not extend protection to the individual public servant leaving him to his existing remedy under the Penal Code. The difficulties in the way of a public servant seeking to avail himself of that existing remedy are too well-known to be specifically pointed out here. I would therefore add the words "any public servant or" after the word "towards" in line 8 of the sub-clause (b).

Clause 7.—I suggest two amendments to the clause as at present worded.

1. The clause as at present worded will apply to coercive intent which is manifestly beneficent in the interest of the person sought to be coerced. For instance a parent seeking to obstruct his son with intent to cause him to abstain from going to a house of ill fame or to the grog shop would be within its purview and the result would appear to be the more paradoxical if the new provision imposing vicarious punishment on the parent contained in clause 8 of the Bill is considered. I would therefore suggest the words "wrongfully or without legal authority" which are found to be in the English law on the same subject, to be inserted before the word "obstructs" in sub-clause (a).

2. Though I feel convinced that there can be no peaceful picketing in the sense in which the word is generally understood, I can conceive methods of persuasion or inducement perfectly peaceful and innocent used for the purpose of causing a person to abstain from doing or to do what he has a perfect right to do or abstain from doing. The clause, I take it, seeks to punish coercive intention which is followed by mischievous results. If A with coercive intention causes alarm or annoyance to B, it is perfectly plain that A should be punished. But if A has either no coercive intention, or though he has an intention to affect B's will and action he does not adopt methods which produce mischievous results, that is alarm or annoyance to B, I fail to understand why A is not should be made liable to punishment. A's act which affects B's will and action may be perfectly innocent and even laudable. For instance an appeal by A to B's love for their common mother-land or to B's sympathy for the starving poor, can in no code of public or private morality be considered improper or objectionable, provided, of course, such an appeal does not cause any annoyance to B. I can conceive cases in an Indian—to Y, a foreign trader, not to sell foreign cloth to Indians on the ground that by such sale India's industrial development would be impeded. Or take another instance, an appeal by X, a tamperous preacher—to Y, an individual, who does not believe in re-incarnation. Y is more likely than nut, to resent X's appeal as impertinent and annoying in the highest degree. Now, while I would make, in the present circumstances of the country, X's act penal in both cases mentioned I would hesitate to make A suffer for doing an act which may be perfectly innocent and even laudable. I would therefore suggest that a suitable proviso be added which takes away from the purview of the clause acts which have either no coercive intent and may be even meant to be and are pleasing or edifying, or though intended to affect the volition of persons to whom they are addressed do not result in alarm or annoyance to any person. It may be pointed out that on a prosecution under the clause so amended, the onus of proving that the accused had an coercive intent or that his act did not cause annoyance or alarm to any person must be thrown on the accused for the prosecution cannot be called upon to prove a negative.

Clause 16, sub clause (d).—The deletion from the sub-clause (d) the provision in respect of the Indian Chiefs and Princes will not tend to advance the object of the Bill which is to combat effectively the Civil Disobedience Movement. To any one who properly realises how closely the native states territory is interlaced with British Indian territory, the necessity of securing the active and whole-hearted co-operation of the Indian Princes in the present connection will be readily apparent. I would therefore keep sub-clause (d) as it stood originally in the Bill.

M. N. ANKLESARIA.

The 7th November 1932.

We, the undersigned Members of the Select Committee, desire it our duty to sign the Report subject to the following note of dissent.

The chief aim of the Government as it seems from the objects and reasons of the Bill is to crush the Civil Disobedience Movement in all its forms in the country. We do not see eye to eye with the Government; and we would recall the following words of His Excellency the Viceroy in his speech on the floor of the House dated the 5th September 1932:

"The set rent campaign in the United Provinces has died away, and the Red Shirt movement in the North-West Frontier Province was rapidly brought under control over the greater part of India the mass of population is no longer concerned with Civil Disobedience Movement."

It may also be noted here that since these words were uttered there has been no such material change in the situation that the ordinary criminal law of the land has not been able to meet it.

Coming now to the proceedings of the Select Committee, we should like to point out that we have had to work in a distinctly disadvantageous position from the very inception of the proceedings. The respective strength of the two parties in the Select Committee was evenly balanced, seven against seven, with the Chairman (who in this case happens to be a Member of the Government) exercising right of a double vote which we question. On every contested point the Chairman's casting vote in favour of the Government has been the determining factor. The Bill may, therefore, be regarded as if it had been referred to a conveniently small committee consisting of only one official member. We are referring to it in order that the real value of the omelus ous of such a committee may be properly appraised.

It is an irony of fate that the Bill as it arises out of the Select Committee constituted as above, should be practically a one-man-made law precisely like the Ordinances which the Bill seeks to perpetuate.

Since the parties were so evenly balanced, it would be interesting to refer to one or two instances which happened in the course of our deliberations. As the Committee rose for the day on Wednesday, October 26th, it was decided to have two sittings on the following day, both morning and afternoon. This was arranged in order to expedite business, and with the full concurrence of the Home Member. It was, however, discovered by Government during the morning sitting of the 27th that there would be one vote less during the afternoon owing to the absence of Mr. Yamin Khan who had to go away to Meerut. Mr. Yamin Khan was trying to pair off with a Nationalist or Independent party member if one was available, but since none could be found Government was faced with an awkward situation. The next thing was that at the close of the morning sitting, the Chairman coolly announced, contrary to the arrangement referred to above, that there would be no afternoon sitting that day, as Mr. Haig had an engagement. On this a member of the opposition recommended to the Chairman to at least add if not substitute, the name of Mr. Yamin Khan.

The second incident happened on October 20th during the morning sitting. Clause 7 had been under discussion the previous day, and on the discussion being resumed it was urged by the opposition members that the clause should be totally deleted, and that this question should be put to the vote first as consideration of the other amendments would not arise if total deletion was carried. Rather than the question being put to the vote, the Chairman allowed what in our opinion was desultory talk by a member. This talk whatever its purport, had the effect of keeping the Committee engaged till the arrival of the nominated member, in consequence of whose absence Government was one vote less. These methods were indulged in, in spite of the protests which were made by the opposition members, and in fact at the stage, when four of us walked out, we pointedly brought to the notice of the Chairman the incident, to which the Chairman replied that he was justified in not putting the matter to the vote under the circumstances, as he was determined not to enable the opposition to secure a snatch vote and that he would not have hesitated to wait for another hour if necessary. Sometime after the nominated member turned up, the matter was put to the vote, and lost as usual by the casting vote of the Chairman. These dilatory tactics were carried on for 43 minutes.

We maintain that the Chairman did not make a proper use of his casting vote which he always announced in the following words: "Of course, my vote is with the Government." We venture to think that constitutionally speaking the casting vote is intended to be given with proper discretion and on full consideration of the merits of the question, and not as if it is pledged already to the Government. This determined attitude of the Chairman has been conspicuous throughout the proceedings, as pointed out before.

We are constrained to remark that throughout the proceedings we were helpless to get Government members to agree to any reasonable modification of the provisions of the Bill on any material point, and we realised that it was more or less a case of Government being determined to carry the Bill with all its obnoxious features by the Chairman exercising double vote, despite the opposition which we could and did offer.

Now we come to the final stage. In the course of the discussion on clause 7, we urged that peaceful picketing, peaceful persuasion, peaceful argument and peaceful mode of inducement for the purpose of promoting indigenous and swadeshi products and industries should, in all fairness, be exempted from the operations of this clause. The Chairman informed the Committee that Government was determined to suppress even peaceful picketing, etc., and that therefore they were not prepared to entertain any exemption such as the one proposed by the opposition. We observed that in view of that attitude and in view of the fact that we were to be defeated by the casting vote, it would be futile for us to waste our and the Committee's time any more, and that rather than try and canvass an unwilling "majority" we will prefer to urge our views before the Assembly.

Realising the consequences of their arbitrary action, the Government agreed that the Committee might rise for a few minutes and arrive at such a compromise as might be deemed to avoid the breaking up of our deliberations. But even this method did not prove fruitful, and it was suggested by the Chairman that the business of the day might continue for the day, leaving consideration of this particular question till Monday, October the 31st, when he pointed out that both Government and the opposition should bring in their considered suggest on which, if accepted after discussion, may be adopted. The question, having thus been removed, was resumed on Monday, and the proposal of the opposition, incorporated in the form of an explanation to clause 7, was worded as follows:

"Peaceful persuasion or information which does not or is not calculated to involve any obstruction, violence, intimidation, annoyance or alarm to any person does not come within the purview of this section."

It is extremely significant to remember that this proviso not only had the unanimous support of the opposition members but that of Mr Ankleswara also. Indeed Mr. Ankleswara was the author of this explanation. It should be noted that with the addition of Mr Ankleswara the respective strength of the parties becomes 3 to 6, and if the matter had been left to voting, Government were bound to lose, but it is to be accepted that the Chairman's ruling came to the rescue of Government. We maintain that that ruling was unwarranted and unconstitutional and that the Chairman acted wrongly in declining to put it to the vote. An amendment had been expressly invited, had for which an adjournment was granted. It is also necessary to point out that an identical amendment was permitted to be discussed in Committee on October 29th, without the Chairman ruling it out of order, and even on October 31st discussion on it was allowed to be resumed in which the Chairman and the Home Member themselves took prominent part. Finding that Mr. Aiklesara pressed his amendment and was not in a mood to withdraw it, Government's attitude changed. The point on of the opposition thus became wholly intolerable, as we realised that the casting vote method was not the only method of defeating our efforts, but the shutting out of a legitimate sphere of discussion and amendments; and therefore four members namely, Mr. B. R. Puri, Mr S. C. Mitra, Mr. Asharali and Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh decided to leave the Select Committee.

Our first attempt was always to put our points of view clearly before the Committee, and to move deletion of all the obnoxious clauses one after the other. Failing in deletion on account of the casting vote, we moved necessary amendments. We note that our Honourable colleague Mr. Aiklesara has said in his statement to the Press which we find in the Hindustan Times and in the Statesman of 3rd November 1932, as follows:

"He (President) did not rule me out of order as being inconsistent and contradictory in law on October 29th itself when I moved the Amendment in question. Such a ruling would have entirely altered the entire course of discussion of this clause. It was regrettable that the ruling should have been made after so much discussion . . . as a matter of fact, when my objection is ruled out of order, it is immaterial whether I pressed it or not, but, on the contrary I did nothing to show that I was not going to stand by my amendment."

As we propose to move our amendments to the Bill in detail on the floor of the House, we do not feel inclined to discuss the clauses. We hold that the amendment of Mr. Aiklesara was not negativing the principles of the Bill, and that it was justified both on facts and in law. The clauses of the Bill even in their modified form, are open to grave objections, and unacceptable. Thus the deletion of all the obnoxious clauses of the Bill should have been and is the only remedy.

There should be no law depriving the liberties of the Press, or punishing parents for the sins of their children, or making peaceful propaganda to promote swadeshi movements an offence.

Even conceding that some extra powers are needed, the period of three years is too long, and we accordingly proposed six months. The Civil Disobedience Movement is only a means to an end. The object is to attain self government rapidly. We feel that as soon as the popular demands are conceded the movement will cease automatically; and no such drastic legislation will be necessary. Repressive measures have never been found to cure political discontent.
